COCERTIZING AT THE WATERING PLACES.—While the voice of melody is nearly silenced in the city, it is reviving at the watering places. Gustavus Geary and his daughter unced for two concerts this week at Rocks way, by special invitation-one this evening at the Pavilion and another on Saturday evening at the United States Hotel. Mr. J. R. Thomas, the composer, and Mr. Harrey Sanderson, the pianist, are to participate in both.

Yesterday morning Gi leon de Angelis, Esq., Cashler of the Mechanics' Bank, departed this life after an illness of only three weeks. Deceased had met with the Board of Directors on the 7th inst., and appeared in not very good health. The next day, however, he took to his bed, from which he never after arose. His dis ase was typhoid fever. Mr. de Angelis first entered the Mechanics' Bank as check clerk, in 1823, and was promoted from time to time until he became first teller—an office he filled with great ability until he was invited to become the cashier of the Poople's Bank, then recently established. He continued two or three years in that bank, when, in 1855, the cashiership of the Mechanics' Bank became vacant, and it was tendered to Mr. de Angelis and accepted. Two years ago he made a trip to Europe for the benefit of his health, on which occasion he was absent for six months. Mr. de Angelis leaves a wife and four children to mourn his untimely loss. only three weeks. Deceased had met with the Board of Capt. Dahlgren and his officers are almost deluged with business, while the former alone is besieged with callers on business of a public, private and curious nature.

fourteen and fifteen hundred men, not including marine and sailors. A portion of this force is engaged in active and sailors. A portion of this force is engaged in active operations both night and day, including Sundays.

Of course the ordnance foundry is the peculiar institution of the place. The casting of guns at this shop is often witnessed by a large crowd of eager spectators, not excepting droves of officers' widows and cousins of the ninth generation. The employes of this shop commence their daily course of labor at five o'clock in the morning, and continue it (with a very brief intermission for dinner, which latter is carried to them). till saven o'clock in the even. time it (with a very brief intermission for dinner, which latter is carried to them), till seven e'clock in the even ing. ing. The number thus employed is forty-four. A portion of these mould and cast one gun (generally a twelve pounder), during the above specified working period, each day.

It is roughly estimated that between three and four thousand twelve pounders, and five hundred other sized guns have been east in this building since its construction.

Next to guns, the casting of shot and shell occupies the greatest amount of attentien.

In the ordinance foundry (referred to above) sixty-four rifled shell are cast, on an average, each day. Twelve and sixty-eight pounders are also menufactured in large numbers. Here they make boat carriage work and composition strajs for rifled guns. Only one of the latter is perpared in a day. Fuses are also attended to. Of these six hundred and forty-eight are made in a day. On this work nine persons are employed, some of which are mere boys. The modus operand is thus:—One man does the moulding and casting, two or three make the "cores" or holes, while the remainder scrape and brush away the athering sand.

At the tron foundry about fourteen themsand shot are cast per day, inclusive of all sizes and skinds, from canister to fifty pounders. A day's work for a single individual is, of canister, eight hundred; fifty pounders, twelve, and of grape, one hundred.

In various other places throughout the yard the moulding and casting of implements of war is prosecuted with great vigor, on various scales, to suit the convenience or capabilities of each respective place. Owing to this peculiarity, it would be a matter of almost utter impossibility for a reporter to obtain accurate information of the total weight of shot cast at this yard during the period of one week, or even the lesser time of one day.

The ordnance and machine departments are the scene of labor night and day.
